

PROFILE

In six years as a writer, Rebecca has worked across various different formats, from screenwriting to copy for content creators. She is particularly skilled at adapting her style to suit any tone and audience, gauging voice with ease. She is enthusiastic about learning and applying new skills, and approach any challenge with confidence.

AWARDS

Winner of the David Nobbs Memorial Trust New Comedy competition 2023

Runner-up for the British Comedy Guide Pro Talent Awards 2023

Quarterfinalist for the Female Pilot Club 2024 COMEDY SHOWCASE 2024

Longlisted for The Funny Women Writing Competition 2025

CREDITS

BBC Radio Scotland Breaking the News, since 2020 (lead writer and additional material).

BBC Scotland Breaking the News Children in Need Special (lead writer). BBC Scotland Breaking the Year 2021, 2022 and 2023 (additional material). Breaking 100 Years of the News (additional material).

Friday Night Comedy - The Now Show, Dead Ringers, The News Quiz (writer, additional material).

Commissioned writer for Horrible Histories, series 10, 11.

Currently in development for several long-form projects for radio and television.

Writer for Screen Scotland's Story Platform - live sketch show.

SKILLS

Rebecca is able to think on her feet and can adapt to any eventuality through her practical knowledge and education. She has a wide range of experience in writing and production, including in writers' rooms, bringing the ability to create and pitch ideas with confidence and work with the other writers, script editors and producers as a team, taking notes and collaborating to improve and develop the best material possible. Working primarily with topical material in her credited writing means she can keep up with ever-changing briefs and produce high quality writing to tight deadlines and under pressure. She has been complimented by producers for my ability to adapt her writing to different voices, audiences and tone.

EDUCATION

UNIVERSITY OF CHESTER - 2012-2015— 2:1 BA HONOURS IN HISTORY

Reference: Gordon Kennedy, Founder and Exec. Producer, Absolutely Productions

<gordon.kennedy@absolutely-uk.com>